TELEGRAPHIC

BALTIMORE, Sept. 17.

The Hall is crowded. There is a full-attendance of delegates, representing 26 States, all except California, Wisconsin, Texas, Iowa, and Michigan. At 12 o'clock, the convention was called to order. Wm. H. Seward, of New York, Chairman of the House of Representatives, addressed the hall, and made an eloquent speech in acknowledgment of the honor conferred upon him. He spoke of the present critical position of affairs in the country and the danger menaced against the perpetuation of the Constitution from sectional agitators and sectional parties, and called upon the Whigs of the Union, in the exercise of their conervative efforts, to interpose to preserve peace.

They had assembled on this auspicious day in the name of the Constitution and Union, and he urged his fellow-Whigs to stand in their might to rebuke fanaticism and sectionalism, and to assure us by our fathers. He expressed the pleasure he felt in meeting such a number of that gallant old Whig band which in times past had done such good service in preserving the interests and honor of our common country. He for one did not admit that the old Whig party was dead.

W. H. Seward had concluded, at the suggestion of a delegation, Washington's Farewell Address was read by Hiram Ketchum with great applause.

On motion, Henry W. Thomas, of Va., was appointed temporary secretary. A committee of one from each State was appointed to make a permanent organization, led by David

Paul Brown, of Penn.

The convention then took a recess till 5 o'clock.

The attendance far exceeds the most sanguine expectation. It is a most imposing body of men. The enthusiasm is manifested.

Five o'clock, P. M.—The Convention reassembled at five o'clock. The Hall was packed, and the entire audience was in a roar.

The committee on resolutions, appointed in the morning session and of which Robert Y.
Conrad, of Virginia, was Chairman, were instructed to prepare an address to the people of the United States. The committee announced they would report in the morning.

The Convention was then addressed by Governor Graham, of North Carolina, Granger, of New York, Beves, of Virginia, and Hunt, of Massachusetts.

Gov. Graham's speech was thrilling, and ele-gated the audience. Persons wishing lasting pictures should bear this in mind. Eight different kinds of pictures are made at this Gallery, from a master to a child.

A large number of delegates arrived this afternoon. The city is alive with preparations making for a monster meeting at Monument Square-morrow.

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 17.

The city is alive with excitement caused by the great political meeting to be held to-morrow.

Business is almost entirely suspended. The procession is immensely long, having been over two hours passing the telegraph office. The streets are decorated with flags and banners, and present a holiday appearance. The windows are crowded with ladies who cheer the procession as it passes, and ready for a grand reception.
